

ART 75 Reading 3

Watching through these videos helps to put working with code and the internet into a better frame of mind than many video series do. Navigating the internet and its many many facts can be a daunting task and scare off most users. The nice thing about this web series is that it breaks down the fundamentals of internet usage into more manageable chunks that can be navigated with confidence.

In the context of this class it allows us to bridge a gap between the internet and our work. When we are making our works with different programs such as Premiere, Photoshop, and Dimension we do not always consider how these artworks will be displayed. Most often our digital works will live on a website of our own making. It is therefore very important to have a basic understanding of how the internet works and how we can utilize these many features of coding languages such as HTML and CSS to improve our artwork.
