These videos helped me understand how HTML works, which has benefited me a lot. I realize the difference between it and other videos. In this instructional video, I can focus more on the author's coding process, and I will not be bored in coding because they will explain and practice it directly. This knowledge is not too difficult, but it takes time and experimentation to remember. So when watching the video, you must be able to follow the coding next to you. And because the video has a pause function, it can also allow you to watch it repeatedly. For example, in "color # fff" or "<h1> <h2>" code, try to know what it looks like on your computer. So thanks to these original video creators, so that we beginners can have an entry qualification.
